Natalie Marsic

About Natalie Marsic

Ms Natalie Marsic is the General Counsel of the NSW Police Force (NSWPF).

Ms Marsic started work in the NSW Public Service in 1997 at the Judicial Commission of NSW. Between 1998 and 2008 Ms Marsic was a legal officer with the NSWPF. In that time she was the lead legal advisor on the development and implementation of the Crimes (Forensic Procedures) Act 2000. She spent the next ten years in various roles within the Justice Cluster including with the Standing Committee of Attorneys-General, NSW Rural Fire Service and Crown Solicitor's office. In 2018, Ms Marsic re-joined the NSW Police Force as the Director of Crime Disruption & Special Inquiries Law before being appointed as the NSWPF General Counsel in 2021.

During the COVID-19 pandemic Ms Marsic was responsible for operationalising the NSW Government's law enforcement response to the pandemic. In 2023, Ms Marsic was awarded the Australian Government's Public Service Medal for her outstanding public service in the COVID-19 response through her role as General Counsel of the NSWPF.
