Sophia Urlich

BlueScope Steel

Sophia is a budding songstress, fashionista and freestyle dancer who practises law ‘undercover’ in-house but uses legal jargon and legislative references so regularly in her everyday life that her profession is really pretty obvious to anyone she encounters.

Sophia’s favourite things to do while working or otherwise are stalling the progress of commercial transactions through the provision of random risk-averse commentary; policing other people’s spelling and grammar without an apparent cause; constantly querying whether things are accurate, relevant or reasonable; and arranging things in alphabetical, numerical and chronological order, just for fun.

Sophia previously participated in the Golden Gavel in 2020 and 2022. In 2020, she won the People’s Choice Award for her theatrical showcase of her then solar powered working from home set up with her esky-desk down at the beach. Sophia returns to the competition this year as a seasoned participant, i.e. ‘slave to the LOLs’.
